Jeep And Truck Crash Is Fatal To Lt. Gen. W. H. Walker

By LEE FERRERO

SEOUL, Dec. 23.-Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, aged 61. commander of the U.S. Eighth Army in Korea, was crushed to death today in a jeep accident before the shocked eyes of hundreds of GI's who loved and respected the hard-fighting frontline commander.

The tragic accident occurred on a road near the small town of Uijongbu, 12 miles north of the South Korean capital of Seoul, while Walker was en route to the front to present a unit citation to the 24th U. S. Infantry Division.

Lt. Gen. Ridgeway Successor (In Washington, the army announced that Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgeway, deputy chief of staff, is leaving immediately to replace Eighth Army in Korea. (An army spokesman said Gen.

Points To Be Clarified

These are the points that the West Germans will be instructed to clarify if the talks continue: 1. Will the East German government agree to a free all-German secret ballot election under the four occupying powers or United Nations supervision?

2. Who will be appointed as members of a preparatory committee? 3. What efforts will be made to simplify inter-zonal traffic, now complicated by innumerable visas, pplications and other forms? Reportedly the East German regime is said to be ready to give up ts original demand for equal East and West German representation

CHRISTMAS 1950

This Christmas, let us give thanks to God, who guides our destiny, for the many blessings bestowed on America . . . free worship, free speech, free press, free ballot, free schools and free enterprise. As we pay homage to the birth of Christ in our churches and in our homes, around the festive board and Christmas tree, let us value these privileges that we may ever be on the alert to defend our freedom against tyranny. Let us by our actions and deeds give people succor and courage to those less fortunate people who suffer from aggression and oppression. Let us pray that America forever stand a Christian bulwark before all the world.

By PAUL GALLICO

Santa Claus Handout House Frozen Boulevard, United Nations My Deal Santa:

How are you? I hope you are well. I am fine. Remember me? I was one of the little boys who used to write letters to you around Christmas time, many many years ago. Gosh, Santa, I guess it is more than forty years now since I have written to you, and that is not kind on my part. I ought at least to have kept up the correspondence even though I was no longer pestering you to bring me things.

Remember my letters in those days? It was gimme, gimme, gimme, though I recall I phrased it more elegantly—"... please bring me."

I suppose you got used to that since all your correspondents wanted something from you. I wonder now whether you ever got a letter from a child offering to give you something, or who really cared about your welfare? How your heart must have yearned for just one.

Fault Of Our Parents That was the fault of our parents for all they said was to write to Santa and tell him what we wanted for Christmas. I do not recall ever hearing anyone suggest that we include a paragraph indicating a genuine interest in either your health or your state of happiness, or making an offer to help you or reduce your burdens in any way

I remember now the things I wanted from you. Fire engines and trains. That was before the days when toys were electrified. One wound the toy locomotive with a key and then it ran around the elliptical track dragging the cars after it until the spring gave out. And the fire engines had a heavy flywheel so that when you pressed them hard against the floor and rolled them, they kept on going right across the room. And I wanted books, Plasticine modelling sets, a Meccano set, a toy typewriter, a Brownie box camera, new skates, a Flexible Flyer sled, and a hockey stick.

You Always Came Through

And I recollect that you always came through. Most of the things had written to ask you for would be under the tree Christmas Eve. And, strangely, the others would usually arrive in the guise of gifts

You always came through . . . . I wonder does the mack still work, now some forty years or more later? What can it hurt to ask? You might even remember me. My parents used to tell me that you loved me. But of course that was long ago. I've changed, Santa. I don't want things any more, you know, things in the sense of possessions. I know this makes it tougher for you. You can't handle this as the annual begging letter from that Gallico kid. You cannot go to your shelves and stop my yearnings with a new deep-sea rod and reel, a gun, a movie camera, a set of matched woods and irons, or a shiny new car. I can admire such things for their beauty, but I don't crave them any more. They no longer

Send me a new friend, Santa; bring me a thought that will lead to a beautiful story, and grant me the ability to write it better than I have ever written before

Among Gifts Leave Peace

Stop at our house, and leave amongst your gifts beneath my tree, ace and the kind of world where a man can work at those things he knows and loves best to do, free from the fear of war and the loss of liberty. Everything else is a fraud that gladdens the eye for a moment and then turns to ashes.

Send me this Christmas, tolerance, patience and understanding. Perhaps it's just as well for you that we stop writing and asking when we grow up and older, for that is when we want the things that are difficult and in short supply. This Christmas I want a place to live where I can make my home amidst good neighbors, where people will be kind, where I may be close to my work but where it will yet be tranquil and quiet and the air clean and sweet. But mostly I am desperately tired of war, wars and more wars and the every-day threat of new and more dreadful ones. Gift me with an end to them.

I wouldn't expect all of these things this Christmas. Any one of them could make it the best Christmas ever. Thank you for even considering this-even for reading it.

And I have learned something else, down through the years, From my heart, you poor generous, enslaved, overworked, misunderstood Saint—is there anything, anything at all I can do for you to make you work a little easier and to make this a happier Christmas for you' Your everloving friend.

The central building of the captures it of the captures in regular, the center part will but increase these defects. In my own opinion, only a beautiful woman — one with cameo features—can successfully adopt this kind of hair-do. So, if you try it and receive quizzical glances from your friends "who won't tell you" you had better change back to the old stand-by, the side part. You will then know, if you don't already, that you are not the center-part type.

AMERICAN SANTA REYKJAVIK, Iceland - To many Icelandic children Santa Claus is an American. This is particularly true in and around the Keflavik Airport which is operated by the Americans. During the war American soldiers held Christmas parties for the local children with big successes and the habit was kept by the civilians who took over the base.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23—(INS)

— The Agriculture Department forecast a 1951 spring pig crop of 63,500,000 head.

At the same time, the depart-ment indicated that the total pig production next year, including both spring and fall crops, will amount to nearly 100 million head -the same as this year.

The department's spring crop forecast compares with this year's 60 million pigs and the average of

Officials predicted that pork production in 1951 would be abundant at almost 12 billion pounds, up five per cent from 1950, since farmers are marketing heavier pigs

They said consumer prices are expected to be moderately higher than 1950 because of greater demand for all kinds of meat.
